Habitat type: Grassland

The reserve lies to the east of the Isle of Axholme's main road, the A161, just north of Haxey. A small parking area, which will accommodate two cars, is mown on the left lane edge during the growing season for those with limited mobility to visit the site. We ask visitors who are able to, please park in Haxey village and access on foot along Blackmoor Lane.

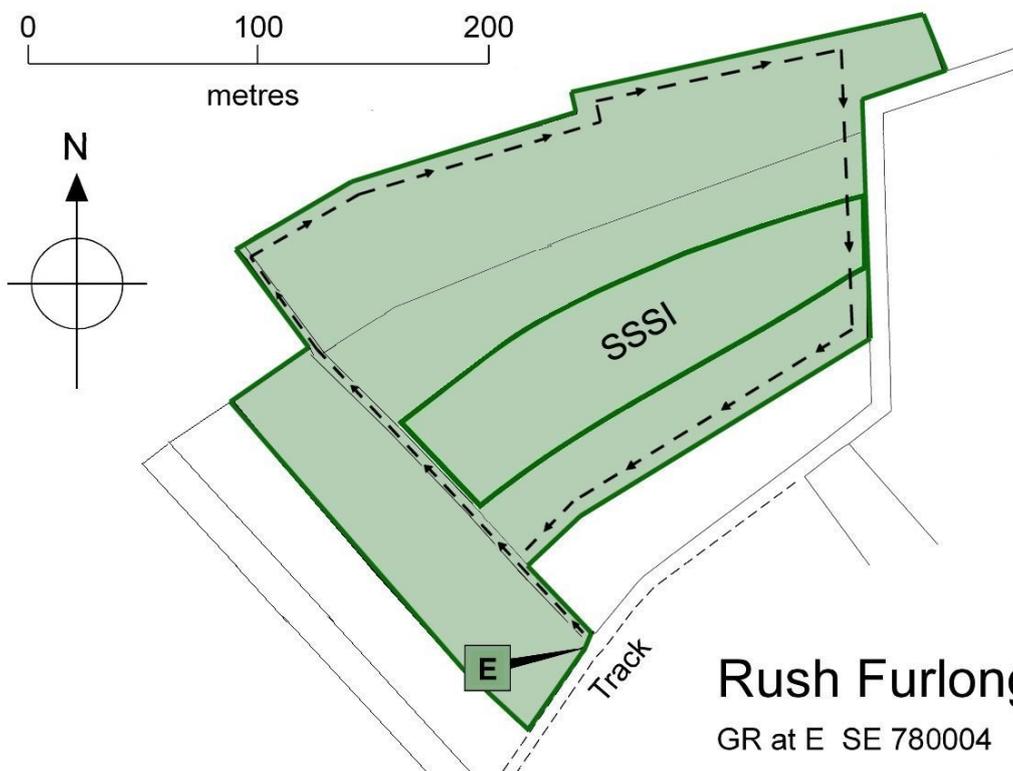

There are two circular way marked routes take in the meadows on either side of the track from Blackmoor Lane. Access is on grass tracks, not suitable for wheelchair users. They can be locally boggy in winter.

The Trust first acquired the small 0.5 hectare SSSI in 1978. Further acquisitions and leases have extended the reserve to 11.04 hectares. This map shows the original SSSI area and the initial acquisitions but not the full area currently managed by the Lincolnshire Wildlife Trust. Currently, there is no public access to the parcels to the eastern end of the site.

The management aim is to continue the traditional practice of hay-cutting.
